This webinar will introduce participants to the concept of Makerspaces. A Makerspace is an initiative that supports the creative process and personal growth through providing workshop space where amateurs and professionals interested in electronics, robotics, software, wood or metal working, art, video, photography, etc. can expand their skills, invent and build new products in a collaborative environment. This webinar will provide an overview of the Makerspace programs in public libraries with several examples from around the U.S. and Michigan.
